good spirits. With our course on the boat, proffered and care, through HARRISBURG, to Baltimore, of course you are acquainted. The only accident occurring was that of Sergeant Fredrick Shalk falling from the care into a culvert fifteen feet deep, at South Easton, Penn. I immediately left the train, found him, and had him taken to the fire house of Dr. Hough, who kindly offered his services and hospitalities. I staid with him over night, left a man in attendance, and took the express train at 9 o'clock and joined the regiment at Baltimore in the evening. The regiment took the line of march to report to Gen. Wool—Colonel Morris in advance of the column, reported, and the old General came out upon the sidewalk, ordering Colonel Morris to proceed either to Harper's Ferry or stop at Baltimore. But as the regiment marched before him, he said to Colonel Morris, "Sir, that regiment is too fine a body of men to stop here or go to Harper's Ferry; report immediately to Gen. Casey at Washington." He gave Colonel Morris a written compliment to Gen. Casey.

We arrived at Washington at 3 o'clock on Thursday morning, August 28th, and went into barracks until about noon, when we marched to Camp Seward, near Fort Albany, Arlington Heights, pitched our tents and retired to rest. At two o'clock Friday morning, August 29th, we received orders to march, with forty rounds, to Chain Bridge, which we did. From thence we marched and bivouacked in the rifle pits of Fort Ethan Allen, one of the largest fortifications about Washington, mounting about thirty guns, sleeping upon our arms.

All day Friday, Saturday, and Sunday, there was cannonading close by us, which we could hear very plainly, and it was terrific. Our pickets were close to the battle. As you see, the Fourteenth has a post of honor! Our band, formed from privates in the company who have played before, enliven the men with their best music. The band is the old Waterbury band. The regiment bought the German silver instruments at a cost of about $1,000. We have been called out, expecting an attack from "Old Money," a number of times. Yesterday and day before, thousands of troops of Hodgwick's, Sigel's, and other divisions were here, and have now gone towards Leesburg.

We have just received marching orders for a fifteen miles' march on the Maryland side, with full amount of ammunition, and are brigaded with a Pennsylvania, an Ohio, and a New Jersey regiment, under Gen. Abercrombie, attached to Gen. Sumner's division. My company are now having arms and having given blankets, and are being better provided for than in Washington notice. The Fourteenth, so slow in all cases, to be fast in the field, being the foremost of the new Connecticut regiments.

It looks hard enough here. Ploodes of shells, cannon balls, of all descriptions all about; no fences around here; everything at war. Wagoner John Hough, and Capt. Farney, called on me yesterday, the battalion passing by us. The Eleventh regiment was in Washington day before yesterday, my brother seeing Joseph Nickerson who was well. The troops all privates Generals McClellan, Sigel, Pope, Fitz John Porter, and others, but we are down on McDowell and a few others.

Lieut. Charles Harris, of Norwich, now in a Michigan regiment, called on me the other day. The Eighth Massachusetts is worn and, shall probably see Capt. Spaulding shortly. We know nothing of the progress of the war, not so much as you at home, but we think are no further advanced than a year ago. We shall probably be making forced marches until old Jackson has either cleaned us all out, or gets drove back, and then after we shall have some service first, shall probably be quartered for instruction. If look to us very tough. Old "Dough-wall" seems to be the only one general of both armies. He has things his own way, and he variably comes out best. I can write no more now—make out of this what you can. I can stop to see if it is all correct, either in language or grammar, but it is the plain, home-truth. Send me a number of your paper that we may get Norwich news. It is a great relief. Yours truly, W. H. Fox. Sergeant Shalk joined us Wednesday, Sept. 25, pretty much healed up.

THE FRONT AT QUINCY CROSSING—Lieut. J. J. KIRKBRIDGE, commanding the squadron blockading the Aransas, has made a report to the Navy Department, of his recent attempt to drive the rebels from Aransas and Corpus Christi Bays, and vicinity in Texas. He announces the capture of the rebel armed vessel Breaker, and also the destruction of the rebel armed schooner Hester and other vessels. The day succeeding the encounter with the rebel vessel he landed at Corpus Christi their "A" and "B" troops, and had an interview with Major SHERMAN, in command of the rebels, and Judge Gilpin, in command of the navy, and of whom he de-
